We are each the mission and the means.
Children live in families that live in communities. All thrive when they are safe, healthy, educated, economically secure and culturally rich.

When we consider people and social issues in their greater context, we can take more intentional and equitable steps to coordinate systems for change.
Dear Friends,

Reflecting on 2015, we as a community can take pride in what we have accomplished together and the impact we are making in this Greater Hartford region. At the Hartford Foundation, we expanded our priority education work beyond Hartford to deepen family-community-school partnerships in some of the region’s highest need school districts. We invested in cross-cutting approaches to adult literacy/job training for residents facing the most formidable barriers to economic success. We continued to broaden our outreach to diverse communities, resulting in new and stronger relationships. And, we have solidified our approach toward achieving greater and more sustainable impact through collaborations, advocacy and systems building.

A strong Greater Hartford region requires that all residents have the opportunity to achieve and flourish. The Foundation, working with our many partners, is leading and participating in collaborative approaches to harness resources and increase community impact. Our newly adopted strategic plan, with a focus on equity and opportunity, prioritizes learning from birth through college, vibrant communities and family economic security.

We look forward to amplifying our efforts to address community needs, launching and nurturing innovative initiatives that support and communicate our mission, meeting the broad-based and changing needs of our region, and creating pathways to opportunity for all residents.

It is with much gratitude to the Greater Hartford community that I write this final annual report message. Serving as the Hartford Foundation’s president these past 10 years has been an honor and great privilege that will remain a highlight of my life. I extend my warmest thanks to all of you—our donors, nonprofits, residents, community, business and policy leaders—for your passion for the community, your partnership in addressing the region’s critical needs and your friendship. Let’s continue to extend the power and promise of philanthropy to all by working Together for Good.
WHEN WE INVEST IN EACH OTHER, WE ADVANCE THE POTENTIAL IN ALL OF US.

Community foundations reflect the voices of donors, nonprofits, residents and community leaders who come together to address the wide-ranging needs of our region.

Since 1925, the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving has worked with donors at every level, nonprofits of every kind and community leaders from every sector. Our work together has shown that our efforts and investments must be well informed, integrated and collaborative in order to achieve enduring social change. Success in one area depends on and reinforces success in the others.

We have also seen that equal distribution of resources will not result in equal outcomes. Significant disparities exist in Greater Hartford by race, ethnicity and income: Some individuals and communities simply need more attention and support in order to have an equitable opportunity to thrive and contribute. Our investments in the community are guided by this recognition.

The lessons we have learned together informed the development of our recently adopted strategic plan. As we affirmed a purposeful direction for our work on behalf of the region, we also acknowledged that our goals for Greater Hartford—vibrant communities, learning from birth through college, and family economic security—are complex and interrelated. Advancing them will require many years of ongoing investment, and most importantly, the insight, commitment and collaboration of a range of community partners.

As you will see throughout this annual report, valuable efforts and meaningful investments come in all sizes. But whether they are expansive and bold alliances or concentrated initiatives, they all contribute to enhancing our collective quality of life. We hope that in exploring this report, you will be inspired to help put philanthropy into action for our communities, now and for generations to come.
relies on our individual and collective efforts.

Through the support of our generous donors, 2,135 grants totaling $33 million were awarded in 2015, funding a wide variety of activities that support our residents and create more vibrant communities in Greater Hartford, including (clockwise from top left): $221,485 to KNOX to support the Hartford Grown Headquarters; $230,000 to New England Air Museum to upgrade and renovate the museum; $50,000 to Bated Breath Theatre Company to support an artistic director; $300,000 to Hartford Hospital to relocate the Brownstone Clinic.
When it comes to issues like homelessness, no one entity can solve the problem. That’s why in 2015, the Foundation awarded nearly $1 million to five agencies working to alleviate homelessness in Greater Hartford. The funding will allow them to continue or expand services, and test out new collective impact models.

The agencies represent a continuum of interconnected strategies, both short and long term, ranging from sheltering to advocacy. Their proposed efforts include:

- Implementing the Coordinated Access Network, a collaboration of shelter and service providers, to rapidly connect those who are homeless with shelter, housing, and supportive services.
- Serving over 1,000 clients annually through rapid re-housing, eviction prevention and sheltering.
- Leveraging Foundation, municipal and private funds to deliver social services.
- Implementing the Point-in-Time count of people without homes in the Capitol Region, and generating data that can be used to advocate for adequate funding and the development of new strategies.

Sal Pinna was one of the people housed through efforts to coordinate services for people who are chronically homeless.
To truly alleviate homelessness, it is also critical to increase access to safe and affordable housing across our region. Currently, only six of the 29 communities in Greater Hartford have sufficient affordable housing, yet economic hardship is increasing in both our cities and suburbs. Therefore, the Foundation and its partners will continue to pursue systemic change.

In 2015, the Catalyst Endowment Fund, our oldest giving circle, focused on the issue of domestic violence. Many of the families impacted include children who, by witnessing domestic violence, are more likely to exhibit behavioral and physical health problems and abuse substances. To support mothers and children dealing with the long-term effects of domestic violence, Catalyst members awarded grants totaling $46,000 to Hartford Interval House and Prudence Crandall Center for Women. Last year’s Catalyst membership included representatives from the Petit Family Foundation who, after hearing the presentations from nonprofit providers, provided an additional $5,000 to each of the selected finalists. Amplifying the ripple effect, several donor-advised funds were also inspired by the work and granted an additional $76,000 to domestic violence programs in our region.

Grants were awarded to ImamCare ($174,000), My Sisters’ Place ($220,000), Salvation Army ($325,000), Journey Home (199,197) and Connecticut Coalition to End Homelessness ($15,000).

Progress often requires greater awareness of the issues and their effect on our quality of life. Giving circles provide donors with a unique opportunity to learn about an issue together and direct funds to support important solutions. The Hartford Foundation offers three such collective philanthropic opportunities—the Catalyst Endowment Fund, the Latino Endowment Fund, and the Black Giving Circle Fund.
We are all called upon to be philanthropists,

THE CORE OF PHILANTHROPY IS LOVE OF HUMANKIND.

In recognition of our 90th anniversary, the Hartford Foundation set out to reframe, celebrate and encourage all forms of philanthropy through two campaigns.

“Words to Give By” invited Greater Hartford residents to share stories of everyday generosity and kindness. Over the course of six weeks, the Foundation collaborated with WNPR to record 154 stories with 170 community members in 16 locations throughout the region. Twenty-nine inspiring stories aired on WNPR and can be found on WordsToGiveBy.org. All stories are archived at regional public libraries.

Due to its success, Words to Give By returns in 2016. Listen for new stories on WNPR between May and December.

The “I am a philanthropist” print ad campaign featured residents of ranging ages, races and economic status who have chosen to give in a variety of ways—including legacy gifts, giving circles, scholarships and charitable funds. In addition to growing awareness of giving opportunities, the campaign aimed to help everyone see a place for them to contribute.

to contribute in our own way and make a difference.

We also harnessed the increasing diversity of our donor base to formalize a new opportunity for collective giving. We also continued to deepen our legacy thanks to the generosity of lifelong philanthropists.

In 2014 and 2015, the Foundation convened collaborative discussions about Black philanthropy, its history, and its power to transform communities. With a clear purpose and commitment to respond to the needs of our region’s Black community, the Black Giving Circle Fund was co-created with area residents on June 1, 2015.

In October, the Foundation announced a $25,000 challenge grant to the Black Giving Circle Fund, matching contributions through the end of 2015. The response from the community was immediate and overwhelmingly positive, and the match was made in mid-December. The 70 individuals who joined in 2015 received special designation as founding members of the fund.

We work with many dedicated individuals to put philanthropy into action for their communities. Some, like Nancy Coleman Braender, make plans to leave a legacy gift to benefit the community for generations to come.

Nancy lived a life of service to her country and community. A graduate of Smith College, she worked for the War Department and Foreign Service before settling in South Windsor with her husband, W. Philip Braender. Nancy was the powerhouse behind many organizations, including the South Windsor League of Women Voters and South Windsor Cultural Arts.

In 1983, the Braenders created a scholarship fund at the Hartford Foundation. When Nancy passed away in 2014, she left a very generous legacy gift that will be used to help organizations in South Windsor enhance the quality of life for residents.
Let’s rise to the challenge of thinking and acting greater to

The Hartford Foundation is increasingly taking a leadership role in collecting data and sharing knowledge, enabling us to assess what’s working and to prompt conversations about new ways to create progress.

2015 marked the second edition of Metro Hartford Progress Points, a partnership between the Foundation and eight other entities with long-standing regional footprints. This year’s report focused on access to better schools, better jobs, and stronger neighborhoods. More than 250 people attended three forums, which featured local experts and enabled deep conversations by diverse audiences on these core themes.

The Foundation also co-sponsored the DataHaven Wellbeing Survey on social and economic conditions impacting the region. And we began to build a community of practice among people who are working with data through a series of quarterly “data meetups” for nonprofits, the public sector, journalists and researchers.

The Foundation’s Nonprofit Support Program (NSP) has developed several learning communities with area nonprofits.

In 2015, this included roundtables on evaluation practices, and workshop series in areas such as financial management, human resources, board leadership and strategic technology.

The Foundation supported a survey by Third Sector New England that looked at regional trends among nonprofit leaders in New England. The survey found that responding Hartford area leaders were significantly more racially diverse and older, in their current positions longer, and more likely to have succession plans than leaders responding in other parts of New England. Learn more about the study at hfpg.org/tsnereport.

In 2015, the Foundation redesigned hfpg.org, allowing us to share efforts, progress and information that is clear, accessible and usable.
The Nonprofit Support Program continues to be a critical source of capacity building and knowledge sharing among our region’s nonprofits.

Our progress is linked to the people and supports WE MUST BUILD STRONG FOUNDATIONS FOR FUTURE LEARNING AND WELL-BEING.

Learning starts in homes and neighborhoods: It is important that we consider, support and empower the families, caregivers and communities who shape these first environments.

To strengthen local practice, the Hartford Foundation partnered with the Connecticut Office of Early Childhood (OEC) to design and pilot an innovative process to award state funding and technical assistance to home-based child care providers for small facility improvements. A first cohort of providers in Bloomfield and Windsor was identified to test the new process, which aims to support children’s health, safety and learning.

We also partnered with school and municipal leadership in Hartford and West Hartford to examine children’s school readiness by neighborhood. The Early Development Instrument (EDI) Report informed community dialogue and action. The Hartford EDI results were shared through citizen-led community cafés and, in West Hartford, results were applied to townwide early literacy projects. Education grants from the Foundation will extend this tool to East Hartford and Windsor in 2016.

In June, we awarded $780,000 to ensure that the six Brighter Futures Family Centers have the resources needed to help Hartford’s children learn and thrive. The Centers’ three lead agencies continue to build a citywide network of family support and work toward shared vision, data collection and outcomes. A more inclusive Family Support Network will launch in 2016, and the Centers, municipal and nonprofit partners will function as a learning community and share resources to support families in their role as first teacher.

Finally, the Foundation actively participated on the Two-Generational Policy Work Group, a public-private partnership with multiple state departments and the Connecticut Commission on Children to address intergenerational barriers for low-income families to school readiness and economic success. We helped inform the development of a statewide pilot program and advocated for the Hartford region as one of the six sites. We will continue to guide the implementation of this effort to support children and families regionally and across the state.

that surround our children.
Let’s deepen the ties between our families, schools,

Let’s apply big ideas to local collaboration.

In Manchester, efforts from multiple sources are reinforcing one another, creating meaningful progress in support of students, families and the community.

Like many towns, Manchester benefits from the philanthropy of its residents. In 2015, the H. Louise Ruddell Charitable Fund awarded $84,963 in grants to 15 local programs that support the well-being of Manchester’s residents and the welfare of animals. Funds will aid mental health crisis training, a community kitchen, education, youth development, arts and culture, animal shelters and veterinary care.

Two grants supported Manchester’s youngest residents. A partnership of six agencies received a two-year, $190,420 grant for townwide early childhood developmental screenings and support to ensure that children are on the road to school readiness. And to help Manchester and Enfield promote developmentally appropriate practice in preschool and kindergarten, the Foundation provided a $27,500 match to a $27,500 grant from the LEGO Foundation to train parents and educators in how to promote play linked to learning standards.

Manchester also is one of seven school districts* that the Foundation is helping to build stronger family-community-school partnerships. This investment includes significant funding, technical assistance, training and shared learning opportunities for the districts’ leadership teams, parents and other partners. Each district was provided a planning grant to develop its approach, and Manchester is one of four subsequently awarded a one-year implementation grant.

Part of Manchester’s $713,520 grant has been used to create an Office of Family and Community Engagement charged with improving the coordination of efforts that can support student success. Work is also being done to further develop Manchester’s Family Resource Centers as centers of learning and family support.

The more we connect our communities from within and to larger scale strategies, the more we amplify shared progress.

* We are helping to deepen partnerships in Manchester, Bloomfield, East Hartford, Hartford, Vernon, Windsor and Windsor Locks.
Let’s deepen the ties between our families, schools, employers and communities.

“We make promises to all families as public educators, that the dreams they hold for their children will be shared and fought for by all of us as partners. Effective schools can’t function alone. They need to be an integral part of a community that shares high expectations, caring and a responsibility to challenge and support all young people to reach their full potential.”

DR. MATT GEARY | Superintendent, Manchester Public Schools

Generosity from multiple sources is bringing change to our families and schools, such as to these students at Illing Middle School in Manchester.

More than 12,000 school-age youth in Greater Hartford are expected to participate in summer learning programs thanks to more than $790,000 in grants awarded to 61 programs, operated by 46 agencies.

Last year, more than 5,000 children benefitted from the Foundation’s co-investment in seven Hartford Community Schools, which offer multiple learning opportunities beyond what normally is offered during a school day.

The Foundation served on the English Language Learners and Educational Equity Task Force, providing legislative language that ensures family engagement.

THE JOURNEY IS DIFFERENT FOR EVERYONE—A LITTLE HELP CAN GO A LONG WAY.

At BiCi Co., youth learn how to repair bicycles for sale or donate them to schools and other youth-serving organizations.

Giving students early exposure to career possibilities can motivate them to pursue the knowledge and skills needed to succeed both in school and life.

Windsor Locks Public Schools has a plan to develop partnerships with local community colleges, businesses and industry to help every student chart a path toward college and career success. With the support of a first-year implementation grant of $234,442, students in sixth grade through high school will be able to explore career options and gain real world experience.

The members of our Latino Endowment Fund (LEF) awarded $20,000 to BiCi Co., a community bike shop run by the Center for Latino Progress. This grant provided 24 Latino students in Hartford with access to work-based learning and entrepreneurial training. It also reflected many of the themes explored in the giving circle’s forums on English Language Learners (ELL), including significant education and employment gaps. Their learning resulted in a community report on ELL that has been cited as a resource by national and local organizations, and culminated in a forum on the importance of engaging ELL families. Learn more at hfpg.org/ELL.
In Hartford, a $500,000 grant enabled hundreds of teens to participate in the Summer Youth Employment and Learning Program by Capital Workforce Partners. In addition to paid opportunities, participating students acquired the basic skills needed to get and keep a job. To help unemployed, out-of-school youth ages 16-24 obtain GEDs, continue their education and find employment, we also granted $375,000 to Hartford Opportunity Youth Collaborative, which helped them garner $1.5 million from the federal Social Innovation Fund.

Getting into college is a great achievement. Graduating from college opens up a new world of possibilities. Our generous donors help remove barriers to attainment.

For more than 15 years, Karl and Judith Thomas of Suffield provided access to college readiness programs and scholarships through the J and K Thomas Foundation. Through their work, they also saw that staying in college is a struggle for many students, for many reasons.

In early 2015, Karl and Judith dissolved their private foundation and established a donor-advised fund, the J and K Thomas Fund, at the Hartford Foundation. Now, they are tapping into our resources to find programs that help postsecondary students persist in college and successfully complete their education.

The Your Chance Scholarship similarly recognizes that some students must interrupt their studies due to family, life or financial circumstances. An anonymous couple, inspired by the support they received during their own academic journey, created this scholarship for students who are returning to a two- or four-year educational program or vocational school.

In 2015, more than 100 funds awarded $1.3 million in scholarships to more than 600 local students.

HOW CAN WE REMOVE BARRIERS AND BUILD A NEW MODEL FOR ECONOMIC SECURITY?

Connecticut is one of the richest states in the nation, but Hartford is one of the poorest cities. Our capital city and region have higher unemployment rates than the state as a whole; while employers indicate a demand for a skilled workforce, the region is not yet able to meet that demand.

Residents who face the most pervasive obstacles to employment include returning offenders, homeless individuals and families, single parents, immigrants, low-literate adults, and at-risk young adults. When so many residents in our region face challenges to obtaining a livable wage, the impact is felt in all aspects of community and family life.

In response, in December 2015, the Foundation approved $3.95 million over three years to support our new Career Pathways Initiative. The overall goal of this ambitious effort is to help residents of the Capitol Region with limited literacy and employment skills take initial steps on a career path leading to a job.

The Career Pathways Initiative will enhance or expand existing programs and pilot new, cross-cutting approaches to job training and placement. It requires partnerships among adult literacy, community college, workforce development, support service and employment sectors to develop realistic and attainable career pathways. Education and training are contextualized to meet adult learners where they are, and all of the training-focused projects include employer involvement. The Move UP! Partnership for Adult Learning will provide technical assistance to the participating organizations.

This project will also help us see how collaboration works. The grants require partners in each collaborative to formally define their roles and responsibilities, and to commit to quarterly “learning community” meetings. Evaluators will look at what is and isn’t working.

This initiative is bold and high risk. It is also a strategic approach to a serious community problem. We must accept that with risk, there may be failures, but this effort is too important to be timid. If successful, it could have a significant impact on the quality of life in our region.

We look forward to the challenges we will undertake with our many partners.
In October 2015, the Foundation awarded $450,000 to Workforce Solutions Collaborative of Metro Hartford to expand sector-based job training programs in our region. We also provided a $600,000 match to Capital Workforce Partners to complement $1.4 million in funding through the state Department of Labor’s Second Chance initiative to support training for previously incarcerated individuals in the Hartford area.

The Foundation is also engaged in a new Hartford Generation Work initiative, which aims to prepare young people ages 18 to 29 for work by building a local network of employers, workforce and youth development organizations. To facilitate this, the Foundation is collaborating with several area nonprofits, led by United Way of Central and Northeastern Connecticut. Together, we will support capacity building in Hartford to coordinate and implement programs.

This collaboration was awarded a $100,000 one-year planning grant by the Annie E. Casey Foundation, which could award up to an additional $800,000 in implementation funding. Hartford is one of four communities nationally to be selected for this opportunity.
Stand with us. Stand for us.

How did the Hartford Foundation’s investments perform in 2015?

Lower commodity prices and slowing growth in China and other emerging markets were key investment themes during 2015, as was the December rate increase by the Federal Reserve, which caused investor anxiety throughout the year.

During 2015, the Corporate Portfolio posted an investment return of -1.3%. The Trust Portfolio declined 2.4%. This compares with a rise of 1.4% in the S&P 500 Index, declines of 0.8% and 14.9% in the MSCI EAFE Index and MSCI Emerging Markets Index, respectively, and an advance in the Barclays Capital Aggregate Bond Index of 0.6%.

How does the investment performance help to provide grants to the community?

The Foundation’s spending policy and investment strategy are designed to work together to preserve the inflation-adjusted value of the portfolio over a long time horizon. The Hartford Foundation aims to achieve investment returns that preserve the long-term purchasing power of the endowment after grants and administrative expenses have been paid. We measure portfolio progress toward this goal by comparing it to the Consumer Price Index, a broad measure of inflation, plus 5%, the spending rate stipulated in our spending policy.

From September 1996, when systematic measurement of the Foundation’s investment returns commenced, through December 2015, the Corporate Portfolio has returned 7.4% per year, net of investment management fees. The Trust Portfolio produced a net annualized return of 6.9% over that period. These returns compare with the aforementioned annual purchasing power goal of 7.6% over the same time frame.

“We are diligent stewards of our donor’s resources and vision for the community. We balance risk and return, growth and spending in order to provide the financial stability required to fulfill our mission, now and in the future.”

ALISON D. GRANGER | Chief Investment Officer, Hartford Foundation for Public Giving
INVESTMENT RETURNS

The Hartford Foundation’s assets are managed by its corporate affiliate, HFPG, Inc. (the “Corporate Portfolio”) and by the Trustee Banks (the “Trust Portfolio”). Donor funds held by HFPG, Inc. are invested on a diversified basis with professional investment managers retained by the Foundation’s Investment Committee.

Bank of America, N.A. acts as the Trustee for the component trusts that are held in a common fund. (The other trustee bank is First Niagara Bank.) The Trustee has sole authority to invest in a diversified portfolio with professional investment managers (which may include Bank of America, N.A. or any of its investment management affiliates) chosen on a competitive basis. Both HFPG, Inc. and Bank of America use the services of a professional investment consultant.

TYPES OF FUNDS

People who want to create or contribute to a fund at the Hartford Foundation have a range of options. Donors can choose the type of fund that best suits their particular circumstances, goals for giving and desire for involvement.

UNRESTRICTED FUNDS
Donors authorize the Foundation to use the fund’s net income for grants wherever the greatest needs arise. A $10,000 minimum contribution is needed to establish an unrestricted fund. Preference funds are a type of unrestricted fund.

▶ For a list of Unrestricted Funds at the Foundation, see pages 39 – 44.

DONOR-ADVISED FUNDS
Created by donors who wish to remain actively involved with the grantmaking from the fund. Donors may recommend specific grants; they may also consult with the Foundation’s staff for guidance on effective grants in their area of interest. A $25,000 minimum contribution is needed to establish a donor-advised fund.

▶ For a list of Donor-Advised Funds at the Foundation, see pages 35 & 36.

FIELD OF INTEREST FUNDS
Designed by the donor to accomplish a broad charitable goal or purpose such as improving health care, elementary education or the region’s cultural life. Donors direct the Foundation to target funds to this topic or cause, focusing dollars on advancing work in the field over time. A $10,000 minimum contribution is needed to establish a field of interest fund.

▶ For a list of Field of Interest Funds at the Foundation, see pages 36 & 37.

DESIGNATED FUNDS
Created by donors who wish to specify one or more organizations to receive the net income from the fund annually. The Foundation carries out the donor’s directions, ensuring that the named agency continues to achieve its charitable purposes. A $10,000 minimum contribution is needed to establish a designated fund.

▶ For a list of Designated Funds at the Foundation, see pages 34 & 35.

INDIVIDUAL SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS
Created by donors to help area students afford a college education. Donors can create a fund with specific selection criteria and may participate in the selection process. A $50,000 minimum contribution is needed to establish an individual scholarship fund.

THE GENERAL SCHOLARSHIP ENDOWMENT FUND
Combines contributions of any amount, and invests them in order to generate income that funds the Hartford Foundation’s scholarship program for graduating high school students from the region. A $10,000 minimum contribution is needed to establish a named fund in this four-year pool.
A brief description of the types of funds available is found below, and more information is available at hfpg.org/typesoffunds.

THE COMMUNITY COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP FUND
By contributing any amount to this fund, donors can help students from the Greater Hartford area pursue an education—and job training—at a community college in the region. A $10,000 minimum contribution is needed to establish a named fund in this two-year pool.

► For a list of all Scholarship Funds at the Foundation, see pages 38 & 39.

THE CATALYST FUND
An endowed fund created by donors who pool their contributions of $500 or more per year, explore an issue critical to the region, and join together to recommend grants from the fund to nonprofit organizations tackling that issue.

► For more information about the Catalyst Fund, visit hfpg.org/catalyst.

THE LATINO ENDOWMENT FUND

Members collectively learn about issues facing Latinos in Greater Hartford and recommend grants to organizations working for the benefit of the Latino community.

► For more information about the Latino Endowment Fund, visit hfpg.org/latino.

THE BLACK GIVING CIRCLE FUND

NEW FUNDS 2015

The Hartford Foundation is proud to partner with the individuals, families and organizations who created new funds in 2015. This is only a small sampling—please read all of their stories of generosity on our website at hfpg.org/funds2015.

FRANCES F. CONNELLY FUND ▶ Unrestricted Fund
In 2015, the Foundation received a generous bequest from the estate of Frances F. Connelly. “Frankie,” as she was known to her family and friends, touched the lives of so many. After graduating from the Walnut Hill School in Natick, Massachusetts, Frankie attended Mount Holyoke College. Frankie and her husband Bill settled in Suffield, where they raised four children in an active and welcoming household frequently filled with friends and family. They were revered in the Suffield community for their philanthropic spirit and compassion. Frankie was a lifelong member of Second Baptist Church, where she enjoyed teaching Sunday school and serving on the Calling Committee. She was also a dedicated volunteer at the Suffield Emergency Aid for many years. The Connellys were longtime supporters of the Hartford Foundation, where Bill served as executive director from 1971 to 1986. Frankie’s bequest established an unrestricted fund that will enable the Foundation to respond to the community’s most pressing needs and carry on the Connelly legacy of caring.

GARNETT GIBBS FAMILY FUND ▶ Donor-Advised Fund
Beth Gibbs is a certified yoga therapist through Integrative Yoga Therapy and holds a master’s degree in mind/body health from Lesley University. She has written a book about yoga for children and a companion manual for adults who work with children. She also has produced a yoga relaxation CD, “Release, Relax and Let Go,” and contributes to the online blog, Yoga for Healthy Aging. As the former executive director of Hartford’s Camp Courant, she created a yoga program for the campers that has been in place since 2000. So it is no surprise that Beth decided to create a fund to see this work continue, named in memory of her parents, Margaret Jackson Garnett Gibbs and Elmer Taylor Gibbs. “In recognition of the positive impact yoga has had on my life, I wish to express my particular interest in supporting yoga and other healthy living programs in the Greater Hartford region for at-risk populations and people of all ages, especially programs for children based in the public school or community settings.”
DENNIS HERSH HUMANITARIAN FUND
Designated Fund

When Dennis Hersh’s son, Austin, was young, he asked his father about his job, “What do you do? What does a lawyer do?” and Dennis responded “I help people.” Dennis Hersh was a lifetime resident of West Hartford and one of Hartford’s most prominent attorneys. Dennis’ generosity extended throughout the community and touched the lives of many—from contributions to the arts, education and medical research, to support for many public-serving organizations as well as individuals in need. Dennis also cared deeply about the future well-being of the community. He demonstrated his desire to leave his imprint on this world by giving resources through this generous endowment, which will support the Connecticut Humane Society and the Connecticut Children’s Medical Center.

LITERACY VOLUNTEERS OF GREATER HARTFORD FUND
Designated Fund /Organizational Endowment

Literacy Volunteers of Greater Hartford (LVGH) provides small group tutoring to over 850 low-literate adults from the Greater Hartford area each year. Nationally recognized by the Library of Congress with a 2014 Best Practices Literacy Award, LVGH provides English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL), basic literacy, math, job readiness, citizenship, digital literacy and GED classes. The organization was very grateful to receive a generous unrestricted bequest from longtime volunteer tutor and board member, Beverly Heckel. A portion of the bequest was used to establish this endowed fund that will provide annual, ongoing support to the organization. This endowed fund marks a big step forward in ensuring the future of LVGH, and that all adults in this region will have the opportunity to develop critical skills and improve their lives.
